

Andreea Rus- Statement and CV

ANDREEA RUS, ROMANIA STATEMENT

My painting (in general) is influenced by the socio-political situation in Romania in the 20th and 21st centuries. The imprint of socialism, with the overthrow of the value system, led to profound and sometimes tragic changes in the Romanian society. The deprivation of freedom of expression has influenced the everyday existence of people. Some have suffered virtually no blame in communist prisons or forced deportations. All these facts have induced natural questions about how some of these people managed to survive, the concept of happiness and the existential meaning. I also had a strong impact on the tragic events in Bucharest, when the peaceful demonstration of the Romanians coming home to celebrate the centenary of the great union had a violent end. The recovery of the soul balance and salvation has come for some who have suffered for example unjustly in communist prisons or deportations in the sense of sacred orientation of life, the only chance to rescue under dramatic conditions, and for many others in the daily life with day by work and small daily satisfactions. The question of finding existential meaning remains open and meditative. We often go from agony to ecstasy, in the socio-political ensemble, often shifting and disconcerting. I call my creation as a whole of Neo-Sacro-Expressionism, a title given by myself, with deep roots in expressionism, neo-expressionism, and in the specificity of this people who lived in and to the sacred, over the centuries, inspired by Constantin Noica's philosophy. I want to create an art with a message for my fellow men and by searching for the rescue solutions of the individual to urge reflection and hope.
